

The Department of Civil and Commercial Law

A vital part of the Faculty of Law – the Department of Civil and Commercial Law – provides obligatory courses in law of persons, contract law, tort law, property law and succession law, civil procedural law and commercial law, along with many related electives, some of which are on offer in English, German and Spanish languages. Compulsory courses taught by the members of the department start in the first year of bachelor studies with the Introduction to Study of Law. Ultimately, the department is a platform for doctoral (PhD.) studies in civil law.

Domestic and international legal research is a crucial element of the department's activities. Members of the Department are proud to work as part of many European scholarly initiatives and platforms, such as the European Law Institute, SECOLA, Common Core of European Private Law, etc. We actively participate in various research projects funded by the Slovak Research and Development Agency and others. Moreover, members of the department have been profoundly involved in the works on drafting of the new Civil Code and the new Code on Commercial Companies.

Along with many scientific events we are proud to be recognised as organisers of one of the most influential and respected law conferences in Slovakia – Luby Law Days.

We want to be seen as a destination of choice for outstanding students and staff, and a place of intellectual adventure, achievement and personal fulfilment.
